

THE STORY OF THE LITTLE WHITE KIWI

Once upon a time there was a little white kiwi. Now, the kiwi was different then the rest kiwis. She was all snow white. The other kiwis would shun her because she was different. The little white kiwi felt lonely.

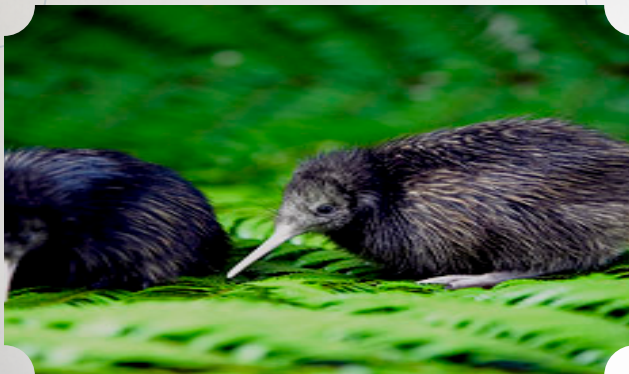

The little white kiwi's mother would always say that she was special and that to always keep her chin up. One day she'll find a friend.

So the little white kiwi went on her way sitting by a river looking at herself. “I look ugly”, she said to herself starting to cry. The little white kiwi’s tears started to cloud her sight. She swore she saw a pig sitting next to her.

The little pig was also crying because he also felt different. None of the other pigs wanted to play with him because he was tiny. “Why are you crying”, asked the little white kiwi. “ I’m crying because no one want to be my friend. Why are you crying”, asked the tiny pig. “ I’m crying because no one will be my friend.” “ill be your friend if you’ll be mine.”, said the tiny pig. The little white kiwi then remembered what her mother told . About one day finding a friend.

So the little white kiwi and the tiny pig became friends and did not feel lonely anymore.
